EZ TIMES

VOLUME 36 ISSUE 1

March 1983

Dear Brothers,

Perhaps you have noticed something different with this newsletter. It's probably because you have a new Alumni Secretary. Yasmine is getting ready to leave RPI this May and someone has to take over the helm. My name is Scott Livingston ('85, Chem, Foster, RI) I hope you enjoy this newsletter. Please, let me know if there are any improvements that I can make.

Yours Fraternally,

Scott
Alumni Secretary

Spring 1983

We seem to have survived this warm winter in Troy and everyone is getting ready the finish the semester.

Services:

On the day before classes started in January, Epsilon Zeta helped the Registrar's office with schedule distribution. Next were the Boy and Cub Scout swimorees, chaired by David Ginsberg ('85, CSE, Miami Beach, FL) Check-in was held later in January. We distributed forms for the Registrar's office and other offices, took ID pictures and validated them. The Boy Scout and Cub Scout Klondikes were held on two weekends in February at Rotary Scout Reservation. On Valentine's Day, we visited Eden Park Nursing Home and gave a party for the residents. Everyone seemed to enjoy themselves on this project.

Projects planned for the rest of the semester include the following: a painting project at St Joseph's, a shelter in Troy for the displaced, the Overnighter at Camp Boyhaven, the Capital District Science Fair. Also planned for the coming weeks is MMOC, which will run during GM Week (April 16-24) Trivia will also take place during GM Week.

Fellowship:

All work and no play makes Jack a very dull boy. Well, we aren't dull this semester. Aside from roadtrips to Wyoming and Florida and almost anywhere in between, we've pretty much have stayed near Troy (~250 miles). RPI hockey games were popular this year as we made the playoffs. EZ Brothers were present on the North trip and the quarterfinals at Harvard.

Closer to home, the fellowship program included Friday Nite Bowling, movie runs, ice cream runs, and all sorts of runs. APO intramural sport teams enjoyed exciting seasons. The Puckoffs-D (ice hockey) almost made the playoffs and the C-league team skated well. Volleyball (The Opposition), indoor soccer (Schmucks) and basketball (Half-fast) all had dedicated players and fans.

And then, there is the ever popular pledge-Brother interaction. The James K Connors pledge class, named after past Epsilon Zeta President of the same name (Fall '55), has been very active in fraternal affairs. They have been in and out of the office when we weren't around. Excursions and raids (by both parties) have been often this semester. Pledges for dinner is another way to spend an evening. Many thanks go to Cathy Graichen ('84, Math, Hudson, NH) for the fellowship program this semester.

Leadership:

ECOM orientation was held before classes began. Dean David Thompson held leadership seminar in the morning followed by an officer orientation by President Rich Tarro ('83 Physics, Providence RI).
